

NEDBANK FARMING FEASIBILITY STUDY

HOW WE ENSURE YOU TAKE YOUR FARM INTO THE FUTURE

How do you know your sustainable-farming idea is worth investing in? How do you know there is a market for it, is it financially viable, and is it truly sustainable?

Nedbank Agribusiness can help you find the answers by doing a feasibility study as part of our due-diligence process for agribusiness credit application.

HOW IT WORKS

You have an idea you'd like to develop or a project to pursue, and you want to use our agribusiness services to help you get it off the ground.

Our feasibility study for farms is conducted by an agri-economist, and the results of the study will give you valuable information so that you can make smarter decisions about the next steps on your farming journey.

You get advice from a dedicated and specialised team who will help you implement more sustainable farming practices.

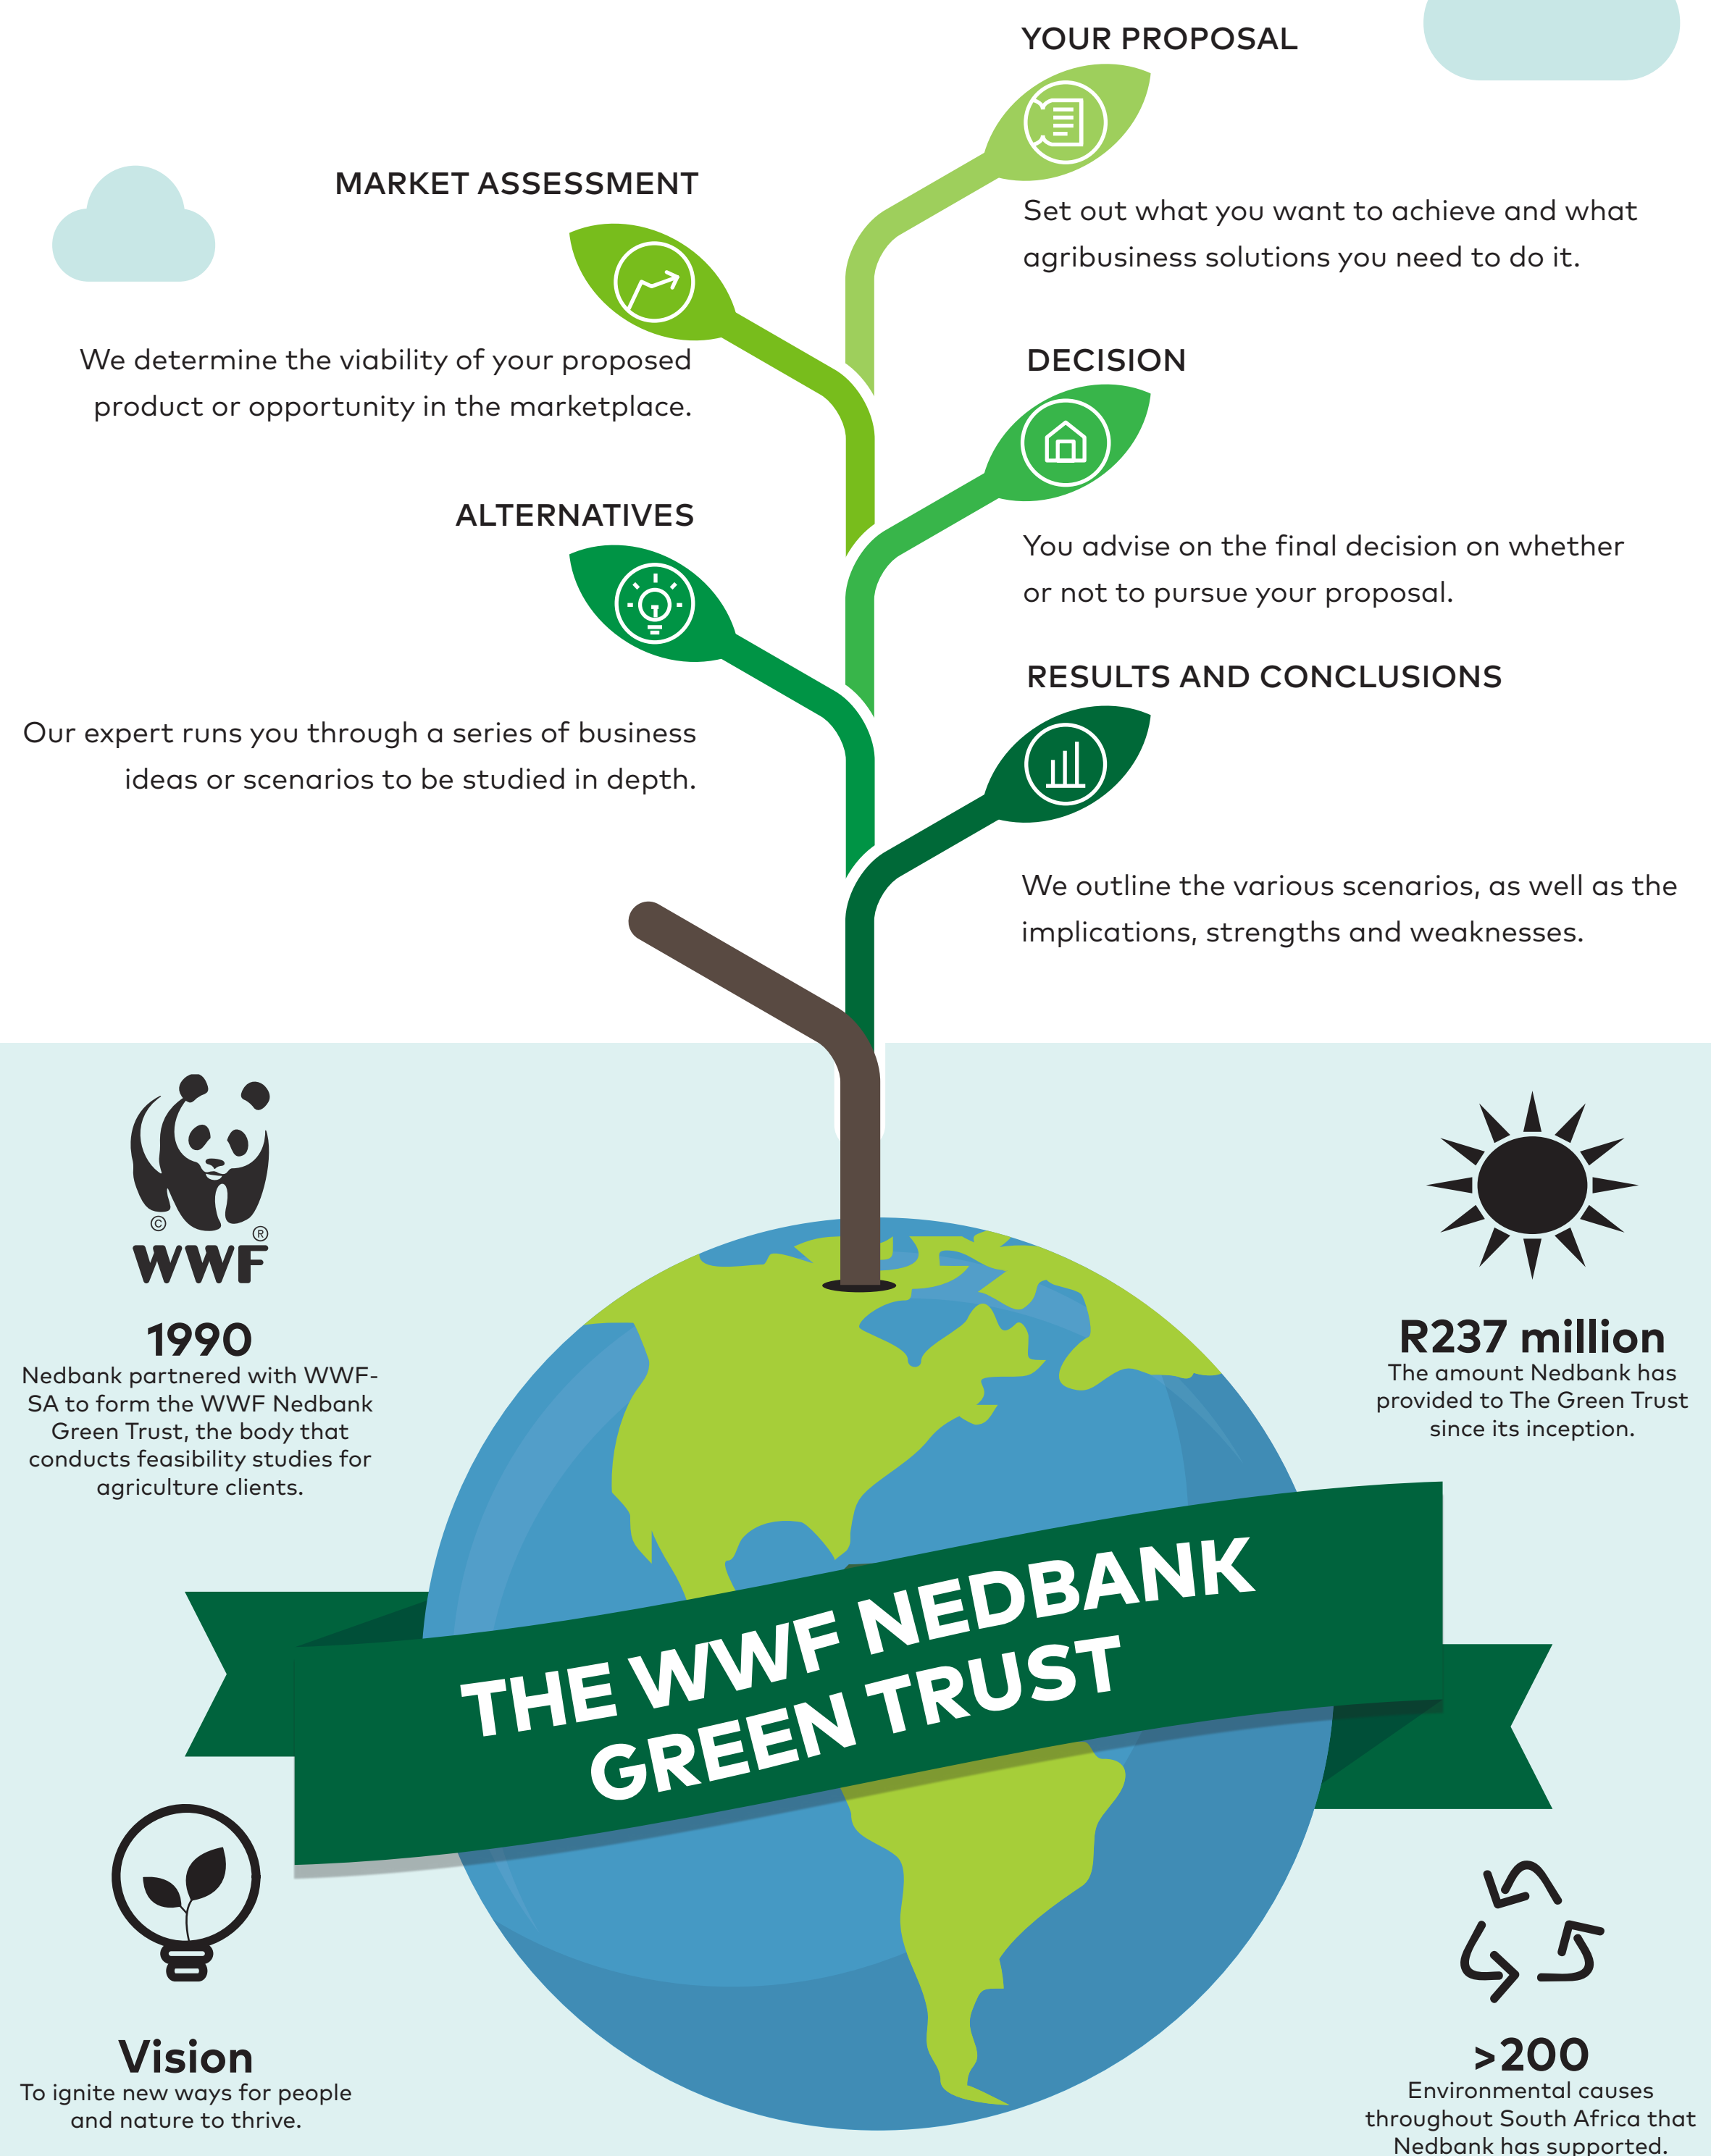

WHO IS IT FOR?

If you're an agribusiness client and want to apply for a credit facility with us, this is for you. If you're ready to pursue new products or new ways of doing things to enhance profitability and long-term sustainability, the feasibility study is our way of ensuring that you are sowing your energy and money in fertile soil.

Key benefits

- 1 You can make more informed decisions.
- 2 You get access to specialist advice.
- 3 You receive expert guidance to achieve more sustainable farming.
- 4 You can future-proof and diversify your business.
